TAILOR-MADE SOLUTIONS

A child in primary school will need different content and teaching systems than a professional in a company-training program. Similarly, a teacher has a completely different set of requirements as compared to a university professor and the officials who determine educational policies and curriculums need a holistic solution, while school administrators have more focused needs. As a comprehensive solutions provider, Panworld Education understands that different phases and aspects of education have differing requirements and need different content delivery and accordingly tailors its offerings to suit the needs of each client.

Providing a balance between traditional learning tools and technology-aided education, Panworld Education has been providing print books for learning across the region and offers end-to-end services, starting from the very first stage i.e. procurement to the final stage i.e. fulfillment and empowerment and between these two ends of the spectrum, it handles other stages such as warehousing, distribution, and reporting. Thus, the group is dedicatedly revolutionizing the education sector in the MEA region offering every student the tools and the opportunity to learn, not just through memorizing but also by understanding.
